

Join ERL V Conference resting on these fundamental facts and a simple conclusion:

Facts:

Language shapes one's identity and understanding of the world.

Hence, all education rests on language.

Hence, every teacher is a language teacher.

Hence, language merits a special position in education.

Conclusion:

Educational and linguistic sciences need to work hand in hand on four levels:

1. on the INSTRUCTIONAL level: Language needs to be “invited” more into classrooms
2. on the SYSTEMIC level: Language needs to be assigned a paradigmatic role in the construction of hybrid educational systems
3. on the CULTURAL level: Language needs to be viewed as the platform of cultural change and intercultural communication
4. on the SOCIETAL level: Language needs to be prioritized as the dominant “player” in civilizational change
