

Special Issue 1 (2023) Authors

Andrijana Berić orcid.org/0000-0002-2933-371X: SERBIA, University of Novi Sad, Faculty of Technical Sciences, Department of Fundamentals Disciplines. Andrijana is a foreign language lecturer – teacher of German language. She completed her master’s studies in the field of German studies. Her key interests are foreign language teaching methodology, error analyses, phraseology, metaphor, semantics. aberic@uns.ac.rs

Vesna Bogdanović orcid.org/0000-0002-7109-517X: SERBIA, University of Novi Sad, Faculty of Technical Sciences. She is an Associate Professor and teaches English for Professional and Academic Purposes at the Department for Fundamental Sciences. Her research interests include developing students’ professional English communication skills, material development, academic writing, and metadiscourse in ESP writing. She (co)authored a number of research articles and book chapters, a book and three textbooks. vesna241@uns.ac.rs

Vesna Bulatović orcid.org/0000-0001-6248-1290: SERBIA, University of Novi Sad, Faculty of Technical Sciences. Vesna Bulatović is an Assistant Professor at the University of Novi Sad, Faculty of Technical Sciences, where she teaches ESP courses at the undergraduate level. Her published papers cover the fields of ESP, metadiscourse and the use of educational technologies in teaching and learning activities. vesna.bulatovic@uns.ac.rs

Gorana Duplancić Rogošić orcid.org/0000-0002-5416-4540: CROATIA, University of Split, Faculty of Economics, Business and Tourism. Gorana is an experienced Senior Lecturer with a demonstrated history of working in higher education. She is skilled in English for Specific Purposes, Business English, Applied Linguistics, E-Learning, Curriculum Development, Lexicography and Corpus Research. She is a strong education professional with a Bachelor’s degree in English and French Language and Literature from the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences in Zagreb, an MA in Linguistics from the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences in Zadar, and a PhD in Linguistics from the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences in Split. gduplanc@efst.hr

Ivana Francetić orcid.org/0009-0004-3124-913X: CROATIA, University of Zagreb, Faculty of Transport and Traffic Sciences. She is the Head of Chair for Aviation English at the Department of Aeronautics as well as ATPL Theoretical Instructor. She teaches Aviation English and Radiotelephony Communications to air traffic control, military and civil pilot students. Her key interests are English for specific purposes, radiotelephony communication and second language acquisition. ifrancetic@unizg.hr

Anica Glođović orcid.org/0000-0003-2164-7770: Serbia, University of Kragujevac, Faculty of Science. She is engaged as an Associate Professor at the Chair of General Education Courses, Faculty of Science, University of Kragujevac. She was awarded a Ph.D. in linguistics at the Faculty of Philology and Arts, University of Kragujevac. She has been lecturing English language courses to students of all four Departments of the Faculty of Science (Department of Chemistry, Department of Physics, Department of Mathematics and Informatics, and Department of Biology and Ecology). anica.glodjovic@pmf.kg.ac.rs

Vojislav Jovanović orcid.org/0000-0001-5223-8617: SERBIA, University of Criminal Investigation and Police Studies. Vojislav is an English language teacher and a court interpreter for English language. He obtained a Master's degree in English language morphology, PhD in English language and translation studies at the University of Novi Sad. His key research interests are English language morphology, ESP teaching methods, syntax, translation studies; distance learning and CALL; comparative linguistics. jovanovic.vojislav@gmail.com

Marina Katić orcid.org/0000-0002-9803-1344: SERBIA, University of Novi Sad, Faculty of Technical Sciences. She has been employed in the Department of Fundamental Sciences as an English teacher since 2001. She completed Master's studies in the field of applied linguistics from the Faculty of Philology in Belgrade in 2009 and international business management from the Faculty of Technical Sciences in Novi Sad in 2006. She is the author of two textbooks (English for Environmental Engineering, 2013; English for Workplace Safety Engineering, 2015) and approximately 40 papers in the field of applied linguistics and English teaching methods. Currently, her interest is in LSP lexicography. mare@uns.ac.rs

Ivana Mirović orcid.org/0000-0001-7997-0568: SERBIA, University of Novi Sad, Faculty of Technical Sciences. She teaches English for Specific Purposes to students of engineering and has co-authored two coursebooks for students of graphic engineering and design. Her research interests include academic communication, multimodality, digital genres and genre-based instruction. miriv@uns.ac.rs

Predrag Novakov orcid.org/0000-0001-6342-743X: SERBIA, University of Novi Sad, Faculty of Philosophy. He teaches language courses at the Department of English Studies as a full professor. His main interests include contrastive English-Serbian studies in morpho-syntax (particularly those about verbal aspect, modality and phrasal verbs) as well as translation from English into Serbian. In addition to numerous articles and papers from professional conferences, he published a book about lexical and grammatical aspect in English and a glossary of structuralist linguistic terminology (morpho-syntax). The latest project he took part in was the project Languages and Cultures in Time and Space with the participation of several university departments. predrag.novakov@ff.uns.ac.rs

Dijana Njerš orcid.org/0009-0005-6221-6418: Croatia, University of Zagreb, Faculty of Food Technology and Biotechnology. She graduated from The Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences of the University of Zagreb and obtained the professional title of Master of Education of the English language and literature and the German language and literature. She is a Senior Lecturer of English for Specific Purposes at the Faculty of Food and Biotechnology of the University of Zagreb. In addition to several published scientific and professional works, she is a regular speaker at national and international scientific and professional conferences. She is also engaged in translation and proofreading of scientific papers. dnjers@pbf.hr

Višnja Pavičić Takač orcid.org/0000-0001-8318-0235: CROATIA, University of Osijek, Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences. She is a Professor at the Department of English Language and Literature. Her research interests include individual differences, language learning strategies, communicative competence, discourse competence, metadiscourse in FL learners' production, lexical development, and cross-linguistic studies. She has more than 60 published papers and book chapters and has authored and co-authored three books and five edited volumes. vpavicic@ffos.hr

Dubravka Pleše orcid.org/0000-0002-2198-9554: CROATIA, University of Zagreb, Faculty of Mining, Geology and Petroleum Engineering. Dubravka works as a Senior Lecturer of English for Specific Purposes at the Chair for Common Subjects. She holds a PhD in Linguistics from the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, University of Zagreb. She frequently writes and speaks on topics connected to her professional interests, which include but are not limited to ESP and ELT issues, particularly reading for academic purposes. dubravka.plese@gmail.com

Siniša Prekratić orcid.org/0009-0005-5092-0264: CROATIA, University of Zagreb, Faculty of Transport and Traffic Sciences. He is a Lecturer at the Department of Aeronautics where he teaches Aviation English. He has an MA in English language and literature. He also teaches English for Academic Purposes and Speaking and Presentation Skills in English at the Department of Communication Studies, Faculty of Croatian Studies. He has taught General English and English for Specific Purposes courses and worked in lexicography and publishing. sprekratic@fpz.hr

Jagoda Topalov orcid.org/0000-0001-7100-0444: SERBIA, University of Novi Sad, Faculty of Philosophy. Jagoda Topalov is an Associate Professor at the Department of English, Faculty of Philosophy, University of Novi Sad, Serbia. Her research interests lie in English language teaching methodology and applied linguistics in the context of individual differences and affective factors. She has published a number of research papers and is the author of monographs Reading in a foreign language – the role of self-regulation in comprehension and Motivation in teaching and learning EFL and the co-author of the monograph Researching affective factors in tertiary education. jagoda.topalov@ff.uns.ac.rs